SECTION ONE
ABOUT YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

What information do we collect and process?

We collect and process your personal information because you are or were a member or are or were connected to a member of the Scheme. We also collect personal information if you contact us in connection with your membership of the Scheme.

We collect and process the following categories of personal information about you:

- personal contact details – names, titles, addresses, telephone numbers and email addresses;
- information about you – dates of birth, gender, marital status, dependents, next of kin (including passport, marriage certificate), criminal records;
- payroll information – National Insurance numbers, payroll numbers, bank account details, tax status, salary and employment information; and
- pension benefits – information about the type of pension and benefits that you have accrued, investment choices, death benefit nomination forms and any other expression of wishes and the identities of other beneficiaries such as dependents and next of kin.

If you are connected to a member of the Scheme, we will process your personal contact details and information about you and also your identification documents (such as passport, driving licence, birth certificate).

What sensitive personal information do we collect and process?

We usually only ask for sensitive personal information when it is required to help us make a decision in relation to your rights under the Scheme. For example, we may request:

- health information / medical records - we may ask you to provide health information if you request payment of a benefit that can only be paid if you meet certain medical criteria (e.g. ill health early retirement benefits), or if insurers require it for additional underwriting. In addition to receiving this information from you, we may receive medical information from third parties such as your doctor or a third-party occupational health provider; or

- other sensitive personal information – we may ask you to provide other sensitive personal information (e.g. information about your personal relationships) if it is relevant to help us decide on a benefit case or an internal dispute resolution procedure.

In addition, certain categories of sensitive personal information (e.g. race, ethnicity, religious beliefs and sexual orientation) may be revealed on formal documentation that we process in order to identify the recipients of benefits under the Scheme (e.g. birth certificates, marriage certificates, driving licenses and passports).. You may also decide to provide us with sensitive personal information voluntarily (e.g. when raising queries or making a complaint).

Please see below Further Information – Part One, more about how and why we process your personal information for more details on the personal information we collect and process about you.

How do we collect your personal information?

When you joined the Scheme, you and/or your employer provided personal details so that we could create your membership record.

This information is updated whilst you are a member of the Scheme, even if you have since left service with any of our Scheme's employers. Updated information may come from:

- you (e.g. if you get in touch to let us know a new address);
- your employer or former employer (e.g. updated salary and payroll information); and
- other third parties (e.g. if you contact the Scheme's administrator to update your personal information, or if HMRC provides us with information so that we can deduct the correct level of tax, or if we need to obtain documentation (such as birth certificates or death certificates) from local authorities).

In addition, we may request additional information in certain circumstances (e.g. if you request to transfer your benefits to another pension scheme, if you apply for ill-health benefits or when you ask for your benefits to start being paid).

Why do we process your personal information?

We use this information to:

- set up your membership record for the Scheme;
- manage your membership of the Scheme;
- send you information that is relevant to your membership of the Scheme;
- calculate, pay and settle any benefits that you are entitled to from the Scheme;
- comply with our legal and regulatory duties;
- help manage risks and liabilities in the Scheme in order to seek to be able to pay full benefits as far as possible;
- help the Scheme's sponsoring employers comply with their legal and regulatory duties;
- communicate with members with information about the Scheme; and
- improve our information and knowledge of pension schemes generally.

What are our legal grounds for processing your personal information?

In order to comply with our legal obligations

As the Trustees of the Scheme, we are under legal obligations to process your personal information in order to comply with pensions and other relevant legislation, the Scheme's rules, court rulings and Pensions Ombudsman decisions. For example:

- legislation sets out certain things trustees must do (e.g. sending certain information to the Scheme's members); and
- the Trustees are subject to fiduciary duties under trust law to act in line with the Scheme's governing documentation.

It is necessary for us to process your personal information in order to comply with these legal obligations.

In order to fulfil our legitimate interests

Processing your personal information is also lawful if it is based on our 'legitimate interests'. The Trustees have a legitimate interest in running and managing the Scheme and managing the Scheme's risks and liabilities. In addition, certain third parties may have legitimate interests which require the processing of your personal information by the Trustees (e.g. your employer may need information in order to comply with regulatory requirements).

In order to rely on this legal ground, we have:

- considered the impact the processing has on your interests and rights; and
- implemented appropriate safeguards to ensure that your privacy is protected as far as possible.

What are our legal grounds for processing your sensitive personal information?

There are three legal grounds that allow us to process your sensitive personal information (sometimes referred to as special categories of personal data):

- when processing is necessary for carrying out obligations under employment, social security or social protection law. This includes obligations under pensions law;
- when processing is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest (which, under the Data Protection Act 2018, applies to certain processing by trustees of occupational pension schemes when making decisions about benefits); and
- when we obtain explicit consent from you (e.g. when you sign one of the Scheme's forms which contains the appropriate consent wording).

What would happen if we did not collect and process your personal information?

If we did not collect and process your personal information then:

- we would not be able to manage or administer the Scheme appropriately;
- we would not be able to pay the benefits that you are entitled to under the Scheme; and
- we would be in breach of our legal and regulatory duties.

How long do we keep your personal information for?

The Scheme was set up to provide benefits over a very long time. The Trustees need to maintain records in order to properly run the Scheme, to determine who should receive what level of benefits and when they should receive them, and to respond to any disputes about an individual's rights under the Scheme.

As a result, the Trustees will generally keep your personal information for the lifetime of the Scheme plus 15 years (the longest period of time that someone can bring a claim against the Scheme).

Our service providers (and former service providers) may also have similar valid grounds to keep your personal information for such long periods.

SECTION TWO
USING AND SHARING YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

How do we keep your personal information secure?

We use a range of measures to safeguard your personal information, in line with the requirements set out in the Data Protection Legislation. These apply to both paper and electronic records. We also require our third-party service providers to give certain assurances and agree to contractual terms in respect of data protection and the security of your personal information.

What do we do with any personal information that is provided by third parties?

We receive personal information from sources other than directly from you. This includes information shared by your Scheme employer, the Scheme's administrator, its professional advisers, service providers and other relevant third parties.

When we receive this information, we add it to the information we already hold about you in order to help us make sure that your details are as up to date and accurate as possible and so that we can manage your membership of the Scheme and the Scheme more generally.

Who do we share your personal information with?

For the purposes of administering and managing the Scheme, managing its risks and liabilities, and paying benefits under it, the Trustees may need to share your personal information with third parties. This will include your former employer, Unisys Limited, (e.g. the payroll, finance, compliance, audit and HR teams). It will also include third parties who provide advice or services to the Trustee.

These third parties may include actuaries, administrators, auditors, insurers, prospective insurers, lawyers, medical advisers, other pension schemes or pension-solution providers, and any other third parties as may be necessary for the operation or good governance (for example, necessitating sharing with the National Fraud Initiative) of the Scheme and to enable the Trustees to carry out their duties. The Trustees will also be required to share data with a qualifying pensions dashboards provider or the Money and Pensions Service to ensure your up-to-date information is available to be requested via a pension dashboard service.

A list of key third parties with whom we share your personal information is set out in Further Information – Part Three. Some of suppliers and service providers also act as data controllers in respect of your personal information.

In addition, like any organisation, we need to use suppliers to operate our systems, keep our records, send out correspondence to our members etc. Our suppliers and service providers who act as data processors must act in accordance with our instructions.

In some circumstances, we may have to disclose your personal information by law, because a court or the police or other law enforcement agency has asked us for it. We may also need to pass your personal information to the Pensions Regulator or HM Revenue and Customs.

We may also share your personal data with the Scheme's employers to enable them to carry out activities in their legitimate interests (this is usually in connection with managing their business from a regulatory, HR or finance perspective).

Sometimes, in order to improve our knowledge and information of pension schemes generally (so that we may improve our ability to run the Scheme appropriately) we pool the personal data we hold with that of other pension schemes through third parties (for example, to obtain up to date and more accurate longevity data).

SECTION THREE
YOUR RIGHTS AND WHO TO CONTACT

What rights do you have in respect of your personal information?

In certain circumstances, you have the following rights in respect of your personal information:

- the right to object to us processing your personal information;
- the right to request access to personal information relating to you;
- the right to request that we correct any mistakes in your personal information;
- rights in relation to automated decision taking;
- the right to request to restrict or prevent processing of your personal information;
- the right to request to have your personal information transferred to another data controller (e.g. if you decide to transfer your pension benefits to another pension scheme); and
- the right to request to have your personal information deleted.

Please see below Further Information – Part Two, more about your rights under the Data Protection Laws for further details on your rights.

How will we respond to your request?

We will usually respond to any request that you make in relation to your rights within 30 days of receiving your request. If your request is particularly complex, will let you know that we've received your request and let you know when we aim to respond. You can find out more about your rights under the UK's data protection laws at www.ico.org.uk.

Under the UK's data protection legislation, there are exemptions which mean that, in certain circumstances, we may continue to store, process or transfer your personal information (for example where we need to comply with a legal requirement or have a legally valid legitimate interest in doing so) even if you ask us not to.

What should you do if you have any questions or complaints?

You may be entitled to compensation for damage caused by breach of the Data Protection Legislation. If you do not think that we have processed your data in accordance with this notice, please contact us in the first instance (see 'How to contact us' below). If you consider that the Trustee has infringed the Data Protection legislation in handing your personal data, you have the right to complain to us using the data-complaints process outlined within the Scheme's internal dispute resolution procedure.

If you are not satisfied (or if you otherwise wish to do so at any time), you can complain to the UK data protection regulator, known as the ICO.(Information Commissioner's Office).Information about how to do this is available on their website at www.ico.org.uk or by calling their helpline on 0303 123 1113.

FURTHER INFORMATION – PART TWO MORE ABOUT YOUR RIGHTS UNDER THE UK GDPR

As a data subject, you have a range of rights under the Data Protection Legislation. These rights are explained in more detail below. If you have any comments, concerns or complaints about our use of your personal information, please contact us directly.

(a) Right to object to our processing of your personal information

You may object to us processing your personal information where we are relying on a legitimate interest as our legal grounds for processing. Our legal grounds for processing, and our compelling grounds, are set out in section one of this data protection notice and part one of the Further Information.

If you have the right to object to processing (i.e. for personal information that we process in order to fulfil our legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of a third party) and you exercise this right, we will no longer be able to process your personal information unless we can demonstrate compelling grounds for continuing to do so. We believe we have demonstrated compelling grounds, as set out in section one of this data protection notice.

The key point to note is that, if we cannot continue to process your personal information, we would be unable to ensure that we are providing the correct level of benefits in respect of your membership of the Scheme. As we are legally required to pay the correct level of benefits to the right people at the right time, in these circumstances we may have to delay or even stop payments / requests until we have sufficient information.

(b) Right to access personal data relating to you

You can ask us to confirm whether we are processing your personal information. If we are, you may ask us to provide the following:

- a copy of your personal information (please note that, if you want more than one copy of your personal information, we reserve the right to charge a reasonable fee based on our administrative costs for the provision of such further copies);
- details of the purpose for which your personal information is being, or is to be, processed;
- details of the recipients or classes of recipients to whom your personal information is, or might be, disclosed, including, if the recipient is based in a country outside of the UK, what protections are in place in relation to the transfer to that recipient;
- the period for which your personal information is held (or the criteria we use to determine how long it is held);
- any information available about where we obtained your personal information; and
- confirmation as to whether we carry out any automated decision-making (including profiling) and, where we do, information about the logic involved and the envisaged outcome or consequences of that decision or profiling.

Requests for your personal information are best made to us in writing (see ‘How can you contact us?’ above). A copy of your request will be kept on your membership record. To help us find the information easily, please give us as much information as possible about the type of information you would like to see.

If, to comply with your request, we would have to disclose information relating to or identifying another person, we may need to obtain the consent of that person if possible. If we cannot obtain consent, we may need to withhold that information or edit the data to remove the identity of that person if possible.

There are certain types of information which we are not obliged to disclose to you, which include personal information which records our intentions in relation to any negotiations with you where disclosure would be likely to prejudice those negotiations.

(c) Right to correct any mistakes in your information

You can require us to correct any mistakes (including adding missing information) in any of the personal information concerning you which we hold. Please contact us using the contact details set out at the beginning of this section.

(d) Rights in relation to automated decision making/profiling

The Trustee does not use automated decision making or profiling.

Automated decision making occurs when decisions are taken solely on automated processes. Under the Data Protection Legislation, you have the right to ask that, if you are being evaluated (for example, when a bank carried out credit checks before making decisions on issuing loans or credit cards), any decisions are not solely based on automated processes and to have any decision reviewed by a member of staff.

These rights will not apply in all circumstances, for example where the decision is authorised or required by law and steps have been taken to safeguard your interests.

(e) Right to request that we restrict the processing of your personal information

You may request that we restrict the processing of your personal information in any of the following circumstances:

- where you do not think that your personal information is accurate. In this case, we will start processing again once we have checked whether or not your personal information is accurate;
- where the processing is unlawful, but you do not want us to erase your information;
- where we no longer need the personal information for the purposes of our processing, but you need the information to establish, exercise or defend legal claims; or
- where you have objected to processing because you believe that your interests should override our legitimate interests. In this case, we will start processing again once we have checked whether or not our legitimate interests override your interests.

If our processing is restricted in any of the circumstances described above, we will inform you in advance if that restriction is to be lifted.

(f) Right to request that we delete your personal information

You can ask us to delete your personal information where your personal information is being processed on a legal ground other than for complying with a legal obligation and:

- you believe that we no longer need to process it for the purposes set out in this privacy notice;
- you had given us consent to process it, but you withdraw that consent and there is no other legal ground upon which we can process it;
- you have successfully objected to our processing it; or

- it has been processed unlawfully or has not been erased when it should have been.

(g) Right to request transfer of your personal information

You may, in specified circumstances, ask a data controller to provide you with an electronic copy of personal information that you have provided to it, or to have such a copy transmitted directly to another data controller.

Those circumstances do not, however, generally apply in relation our processing of your personal information in connection with the Scheme. This is because:

- our legal grounds for processing will not normally be that you have consented to the processing; and
- we do not carry out processing by automated means.

(h) Right to withdraw consent

We usually only request your consent when we ask you for sensitive personal data. You have the right to withdraw any consent you have given us at any point.

However, as highlighted above, the Trustees only request sensitive personal data that is required to make decisions in respect of specific member benefits or complaints. If you withdraw your consent for us to process this information, we may have to delay or even stop payments / requests until we have sufficient information.

(i) What will happen if your rights are breached?

You may be entitled to compensation for damage caused by breach of the Data Protection Legislation. If you do not think that we have processed your information in accordance with this notice, please contact us in the first instance. You can make a complaint to us using the data-related complaints process set out within the internal dispute resolution procedure.

You can also complain to the UK data protection regulator. Information about how to do this is available on their website at www.ico.org.uk or by calling their helpline on 0303 123 1113.
